Abstract

Announcements: • First Version of 2nd Paper is due April 17.
  • Talks will be April 22, 24 and 29
  • Final Version of 2nd Paper is due April 29.

Due: Tuesday, April 15, 9:30 am.

For next class the title of your paper (and talk) and the abstract are due. Since your final presentations will be open to the public, I will advertise your presentations and will use your title and abstract.

The following paragraph is taken directly from the hand-out “Paper”. For further information see also copies of sample abstracts (last class) and “On Preparing a Manuscript For Publication.”

“An abstract is a summary of what you did and your results. The abstract is for a reader who might not have time to read the rest of your paper or who decides depending on your abstract if she or he reads the whole paper. The abstract should be understandable without the rest of the paper and should contain: the system you study, the model, the method and the results.”
