

Raypointments

	PO	Extract	Difference	Moment	Positive	Circumstance
Escape	-No Appointments EVER -Nobody forgets appointments! -No Offices	-Information guaranteed to be delivered -Students wouldn't miss appointment	-People forget / show up late to appointments	People may be forced to go to appointment, like by force -Professors must travel around dorms to get to all their appointments	-Nobody forgets appointments!	Everybody forgets appointments
Reversal	-Faculty meets students at their dorm -Appointments have you	-It's professors liability to show up -Student could be more comfortable	-Usually on students to show up -No real consequences to missing -Teacher's office can be intimidating	-Students become increasingly lazy	-Students don't have the option to miss appointments, it's all on the teacher	students are disabled and therefore can't travel to teachers' offices
Distortion	-Appointments take place somewhere neither person is comfortable with -Meals required (to be paid by prof, obviously)	-Eliminates the pressure / intensity of teachers' office	-Teacher's office can be intimidating -Requires effort on both ends, neutralizing the appointment's dynamic	-Both parties will get off their butts and walk around campus more often -Students and Professors would eat more	-More incentive to go to appointments due to the enticing proposition of free food	All appointments are scheduled during lunch or dinner time
Exaggeration	-If you miss an appointment, you fail -Appointments last 10 hours -Appointments are done instantaneously somehow	-Consequences to missing appointments	-Only consequence to missing an app right now is awkward rescheduling	-Higher rate of failing out of class	-Students would be scared to miss therefore would definitely attend	Too high of a graduation rate; high rate of appointment forgetting
Wishful	-I could show up at my convenience -Appointments were few and far between -Showing up to appointments improved my grade	-More reasons for students to remember / prioritize their appointments	-There is only a personal responsibility incentive to remember	-GPAs would increase but students may only schedule / attend appointments just for the boost	-Students would show up to appointments	Students are in desperate need of a gpa boost and the teacher is merciful